Introduction

So, this article will tell you how to understand that you like a girl or a woman.

In general, the female individuals are not simple people. To understand them from the first attempt is not possible, every woman or girl differs from others in character, habits, principles, each has her own understanding of life. To understand their nature and this very vision of life is difficult, but possible. All gestures, facial expressions and other minor body movements also have those features that can show what a guy or a man she likes. Now you will be asked to understand these and other signs.

Watch for signs

To understand whether you like a girl, you need to watch her. Let's start with the eyes. In a glance, something special can often slip through. There are several points to pay attention to.

The first of the points is eye contact. If you are not indifferent to the girl, then, most likely, eye contact from time to time will be delayed from 5 or 7 seconds.

The second point – when looking at you, namely, when the girl looks clearly at you, you need to watch her pupils. Already, probably, everyone has heard about the fact that if a person likes what he looks at, then his pupils begin to expand uncontrollably. It does not depend on the person, it depends on how much the object is pleasant to a person. In other words, a person enjoys himself while he looks at what he likes.

The third and most true sign that you are not indifferent to a particular person. This is how many times she looked at you. To monitor this factor, you need to be with the subscriber with many other people familiar to her. It can be either an excursion, or a trip with classmates, classmates, people working with it...

More specifically, a group of people should consist of people they know. And now we need to see how often the girl looks at you, not on the others. If you started to notice the clash with views, to catch her eye on yourself more often, it means that she is interested in you. But this only concerns awkward views. It means that the view can be directed to the side, sometimes it can not even touch you at all, but at the same time be somewhere near you (after all, peripheral vision in female representatives is very developed), well, the collision was already mentioned.
