Введение

Настоящее пособие предназначено для изучающих английский язык на уровне А2 и направлено на развитие практических навыков устной и письменной речи. Материалы построены вокруг повседневных ситуаций, с которыми сталкивается человек в обычной жизни, включая учебу, работу, бытовые дела, отдых и социальное взаимодействие.

Основная цель книги заключается в формировании уверенного владения базовой лексикой и устойчивыми речевыми конструкциями, а также в развитии способности самостоятельно выражать мысли на английском языке в простых, но логически связанных высказываниях. Особое внимание уделяется использованию разговорных выражений, которые помогают сделать речь более естественной и приближенной к реальному общению.

Каждая тема включает связный текст, список ключевой лексики с переводом, речевые шаблоны, а также задания для практики устной речи. Такой формат позволяет не только усваивать новые слова и выражения, но и сразу применять их в контексте. Это способствует более эффективному запоминанию и развитию языковой интуиции.

Темы подобраны таким образом, чтобы отражать типичные жизненные ситуации: повседневные привычки, эмоции, обучение, работа с информацией, взаимодействие с людьми и бытовые ситуации. Это позволяет обучающемуся постепенно расширять словарный запас и уверенно использовать язык в реальных условиях.

Автор исходил из принципа постепенного усложнения материала, что обеспечивает последовательное развитие навыков без перегрузки. Структура пособия ориентирована на самостоятельную работу, однако может быть использована и в учебном процессе под руководством преподавателя.

В результате работы с материалами обучающийся должен приобрести базовую уверенность в использовании английского языка, научиться строить простые высказывания и лучше понимать повседневную речь.

My Lazy Morning vs My Busy Morning

Text

Some mornings are slow and quiet, but other mornings are busy and stressful. It depends on my plans, my mood, and how early I wake up.

On a lazy morning, I usually wake up without an alarm. I stay in bed for a few minutes and check my phone. I scroll through social media, read messages, and sometimes watch short videos. I don't feel in a hurry, so I take my time. Then I slowly get up, make my bed, and go to the kitchen.

I like to start a lazy morning with a simple breakfast. I often make coffee and eat something easy, like toast or eggs. I sit by the window and enjoy the quiet time. Sometimes I listen to music or just think about my day. I don't plan everything, because I want to relax.

After breakfast, I may do something I enjoy. For example, I read a book, watch a TV show, or clean a little. I don't rush, and I don't worry about time. It feels good because I can do things at my own pace.

But a busy morning is very different. On these days, I wake up early because I have work or important plans. My alarm rings, and I often feel tired. I usually don't want to get up, but I have to. So I get out of bed quickly and start my day.

First, I check the time and think, «I don't have much time.» Then I go to the bathroom, brush my teeth, and get dressed fast. I don't spend time on my phone, because every minute is important.

Breakfast on a busy morning is quick. Sometimes I just drink coffee and eat something small, like a banana. If I'm really late, I skip breakfast, but I know it's not a good habit.

After that, I pack my bag and check if I have everything: my phone, keys, and documents. I don't want to forget anything, because it can cause problems later. Then I leave the house and try to get to work on time.

Busy mornings can be stressful, but they also help me feel active and focused. Lazy mornings are more relaxing, but sometimes I feel a bit unproductive.

I think both types of mornings are important. Lazy mornings help me rest and enjoy life, but busy mornings help me stay organized and responsible. The best situation is when I can have a balance between the two.

When I'm Late and Everything Goes Wrong

Text

Some days start badly, and everything goes wrong from the first minute. This usually happens when I wake up late.

One morning, my alarm didn't ring, or maybe I didn't hear it. I woke up and looked at the time. I was already late. I felt stressed crazy, because I knew I didn't have much time.

I quickly got out of bed and rushed to the bathroom. I didn't take my time like on a lazy morning. I brushed my teeth fast and didn't even look in the mirror for long. Then I tried to get dressed, but I couldn't find my favorite shirt. I looked everywhere, but it wasn't there. This made me even more nervous.

After that, I went to the kitchen, but there was no time for a real breakfast. I just grabbed a cup of coffee and drank it too fast. Of course, I almost spilled it on my clothes. At that moment, I felt like everything was going wrong.

Then I needed to leave the house, but I couldn't find my keys. I checked my bag, my jacket, and the table near the door. Nothing. Finally, I found them in a strange place, and I don't even remember how they got there.

When I went outside, I realized I forgot my headphones. I thought about going back, but I didn't have time. So I just continued.

The worst part was the transport. I missed my bus by one minute. I saw it leave, and I couldn't do anything. I had to wait for the next one, and it felt like forever. While I was waiting, I checked the time again and again and felt more and more stressed.

When I finally got to work, I was late. I said sorry and tried to start my day, but it was hard to focus. I kept thinking about my bad morning.

Days like this are not easy, but they happen to everyone. I try to stay calm, but it's not always possible. I think the best thing to do is prepare the night before: set an alarm, choose clothes, and pack my bag.

Now I understand that one small problem can change the whole morning. But I also know that it's just a bad start, not a bad day. I try to relax, drink some water or coffee, and slowly feel better.

My Perfect Day Off

Everyone needs a day off to relax and enjoy life. For me, a perfect day off is simple, calm, and a little bit special.

First of all, I don't wake up early. I wake up without an alarm and stay in bed for a few minutes. I like to stretch, check my phone, and slowly start my day. I don't feel stressed because I don't have any important plans. It feels really good to know that I can take my time.

After that, I get up and go to the kitchen. I make a nice breakfast, not something quick like on a busy day. I usually make eggs, toast, and coffee. Sometimes I add fruit or something sweet. I sit down, enjoy my food, and maybe watch a short video or listen to music.

Then I think about what I want to do. On my perfect day off, I don't like strict plans. I prefer to decide things in the moment. If the weather is nice, I go for a walk. I like walking in the park, listening to music, and just relaxing. It helps me clear my mind.

Sometimes I meet a friend. We can go to a café, talk about life, and laugh a lot. I enjoy these moments because I don't have to hurry. We can sit for a long time and just enjoy the conversation.

If I stay at home, I do things I like. For example, I watch a TV show, read a book, or cook something new. Cooking can be fun when I'm not tired. I try new recipes and enjoy the process.

In the afternoon, I may take a short nap or just lie on the bed and rest. I don't feel lazy — I feel relaxed. I think rest is very important, especially after a busy week.

In the evening, I like to do something cozy. I can watch a movie, order food, or make tea. I turn off my phone or use it less, because I want some quiet time. It helps me feel calm and happy.

At the end of the day, I feel refreshed and ready for a new week. A perfect day off is not about doing a lot of things. It's about feeling good, relaxed, and free.

A Day When I Had No Time for Anything

Text

Some days are so busy that there is no time to stop and relax. I remember one day when I had no time for anything, and everything felt too fast.

It started in the morning when I woke up late. My alarm rang, but I turned it off and went back to sleep. When I finally woke up, I looked at the time and understood that I was already late. I didn't have much time, so I jumped out of bed and rushed to get ready.

I didn't take my time at all. I brushed my teeth quickly, got dressed in a hurry, and didn't even think about what I was wearing. I just grabbed the first clothes I saw. There was no time for breakfast, so I skipped it and only drank some coffee.

Then I packed my bag very fast. I was afraid to forget something important, like my phone or keys. I checked everything twice, but I still felt nervous. After that, I left the house and almost ran to the bus stop.

Unfortunately, I missed my bus. It was very frustrating, because I was already late. I had to wait for the next one, and it felt like a waste of time. While I was waiting, I kept checking the time and thinking about all the things I needed to do.

When I finally got to work, my day didn't become easier. I had many tasks and no time to rest. People asked me questions, I answered emails, and I tried to finish everything as quickly as possible. I didn't even have time for lunch, so I just ate something small at my desk.

In the afternoon, things became even more stressful. I had to finish an important task, but I couldn't focus well. I felt tired and a bit overwhelmed. I wanted to take a short break, but I didn't have time for that.

After work, I still had things to do. I needed to go to the store, call a friend, and clean my room. But I was so tired that everything felt difficult. I didn't want to do anything, but I had no choice.

In the evening, I finally came home and sat down. It was the first moment when I could relax. I felt exhausted, but also a little proud, because I finished many things.

Days like this are not fun, but they happen sometimes. They teach me that time is important. Now I try to plan my day better and not leave everything for the last moment. I also understand that it's important to take breaks, even when I am very busy.

Small Things That Make Me Happy

Text

Happiness is not always about big events or special days. For me, small things in everyday life can make me feel happy and relaxed.

One of these things is a good morning. When I wake up without stress and have time to take my time, I feel much better. I like to make a cup of coffee and sit quietly for a few minutes. This simple moment helps me start my day in a good mood.

Another small thing that makes me happy is listening to music. I listen to music when I walk, when I clean, or when I just want to relax. My favorite songs can change my mood very quickly. If I feel tired or a bit sad, music helps me feel better.

I also enjoy going for a walk, especially when the weather is nice. Fresh air and a calm place help me clear my mind. I don't need to go far. Even a short walk near my home can make a big difference.

Talking to people I like is also very important. When I meet a friend or call someone, I feel more positive. We can laugh, share stories, and forget about problems for some time. These moments are simple, but very valuable.

Food can also make me happy. I don't mean expensive meals, but something I really like. For example, a good breakfast or my favorite snack can improve my mood. When I have time to enjoy my food, I feel more relaxed.

Another thing I like is having some quiet time. Sometimes I turn off my phone or use it less. I sit in my room, drink tea, and just relax. It helps me feel calm and focused.

I also feel happy when I finish something important. Even small tasks, like cleaning my room or answering emails, can give me a good feeling. It feels nice to know that I did something useful.

In the evening, I enjoy cozy moments. I like to watch a movie, read a book, or just lie in bed and rest. After a long day, these simple things help me feel comfortable and peaceful.

I think small things are very important because they happen every day. Big events are rare, but small happy moments are always around us. We just need to notice them and enjoy them.

Key Vocabulary and Expressions

make me happy — делать меня счастливым

everyday life — повседневная жизнь

in a good mood — в хорошем настроении

take my time — не спешить

What I Do When I Feel Bored

Text

Everyone feels bored sometimes. It can happen at home, at work, or even on the weekend. When I feel bored, I try not to waste my time. I look for simple things to do that can change my mood and make me feel better.

First, I often check my phone. I scroll through social media, read messages, or watch short videos. It's easy and doesn't take much effort. But after some time, I understand that it doesn't really help, so I try to do something more useful.

One thing I like to do is listen to music. Music can quickly change my mood. If I feel bored, I choose something energetic. Sometimes I even dance a little in my room. It sounds funny, but it really works.

Another good idea is to go for a walk. Fresh air helps me feel more active. I don't need a special place — I can just walk around my neighborhood. When I walk, I try to look around and notice small things, like trees, people, or the weather. It helps me feel more alive.

If I stay at home, I try to do something productive. For example, I clean my room, organize my things, or cook something simple. These activities are not very exciting, but they help me feel useful. After that, I usually feel better.

Sometimes I watch a movie or a TV show. It's a good way to relax and forget about boredom. But I try not to spend too much time on it, because I don't want to feel lazy.

I also like to learn something new. For example, I can practice English, watch videos, or read something interesting. It's not always easy, but it helps me use my time well.

Another thing I do is text or call a friend. Talking to someone can change everything. We can share news, laugh, and support each other. After a good conversation, I don't feel bored anymore.

In the end, I think boredom is not a bad thing. It shows that I need a change. I just need to choose the right activity. Even small actions can make a big difference and help me enjoy my day more.

Key Vocabulary and Expressions

waste time — тратить время впустую

My Evening Routine After a Long Day

Text

After a long and busy day, I really need time to relax. My evening routine helps me feel calm, comfortable, and ready for the next day.

When I come home, the first thing I do is change my clothes. I take off my work clothes and put on something comfortable. It helps me feel relaxed immediately. Sometimes I also wash my face or take a quick shower, especially if I feel very tired.

After that, I usually go to the kitchen. If I didn't eat well during the day, I make something simple for dinner. I don't like cooking complicated meals in the evening, because I don't have much energy. I prefer something quick and easy, like pasta, eggs, or a sandwich. While I eat, I often watch a video or just sit quietly.

Then I take some time to rest. Sometimes I lie on the bed or sit on the sofa and do nothing for a few minutes. It may look like I am not doing anything, but this time is very important for me. It helps me slow down and forget about work.

In the evening, I also like to do something enjoyable. For example, I watch a TV show, listen to music, or read a book. These activities help me change my mood and feel better. If I am not too tired, I sometimes practice English or learn something new.

Another important part of my routine is checking my phone. I reply to messages, scroll through social media, and see what my friends are doing. But I try not to spend too much time on it, because I want to relax my mind.

Sometimes I talk to someone in the evening. I can call a friend or spend time with family. A good conversation helps me feel less stressed and more positive.

Before I go to bed, I try to prepare for the next day. I choose my clothes, pack my bag, and think about my plans. It helps me feel more organized in the morning.

At the end of the evening, I like to have a quiet moment. I turn off the lights, lie in bed, and try to relax. Sometimes I think about my day, but I try not to worry too much.

My evening routine is simple, but it works well for me. It helps me feel relaxed, sleep better, and start a new day with more energy.

A Person I Can Always Talk To

Text

In life, it is very important to have someone you can talk to. For me, this person is my close friend. I know that I can always share my thoughts and feelings with them, and they will listen to me.

We met a few years ago, and from the beginning, it was easy to communicate. We have different interests, but we understand each other well. I think this is why our friendship is strong.

When I have a problem, I usually call or text my friend. I don't feel afraid or shy, because I know they will not judge me. They always try to understand my situation and give helpful advice. Even when they don't have a solution, they still listen внимательно, and it already helps me feel better.

Sometimes I just want to talk about my day. I tell them what happened at work, what I did, and how I feel. These conversations may be simple, but they are very important for me. It feels good to share small things.

My friend is also very honest. If I make a mistake, they tell me the truth, but in a kind way. I respect that, because I know they want to help me. It's not always easy to hear, but it helps me grow.

We don't only talk about problems. We also laugh a lot and share funny stories. When I feel sad or tired, a good conversation with my friend can change my mood. It helps me relax and feel more positive.

Another thing I like is that we support each other. When something good happens, we celebrate together. When something goes wrong, we try to help each other. This makes our friendship stronger.

I think it's very important to have a person like this in life. You don't need many people — one good friend is enough. The most important thing is trust and understanding.

I feel lucky because I have someone I can always talk to. It makes my life easier and happier.

A Friend Who Is Always Late

Text

Everyone has at least one friend who is always late. I also have a friend like this, and it is both funny and sometimes a little frustrating.

We usually agree to meet at a certain time, for example at 5 o'clock. I always try to come on time, but my friend is almost never ready. I arrive at the meeting place and start waiting. Sometimes I wait for 10 minutes, sometimes for 30 minutes, and sometimes even longer.

When I call them, they always say the same thing: «I'm almost there» or «I'll be there in five minutes.» But in reality, it usually takes much longer. Because of this, I learned to bring something with me, like my phone or headphones, so I don't feel bored while waiting.

At first, I felt annoyed because I don't like being late. I think being on time is a sign of respect. But now I understand that my friend is not doing it on purpose. They are just slow in the morning and often lose track of time.

When my friend finally arrives, they always look a bit stressed and tired. They quickly say sorry, and we continue our plans. After a few minutes, everything becomes normal again, and we start enjoying our time together.

Even though my friend is always late, I still like spending time with them. They are funny, kind, and always have interesting stories to tell. When we meet, we laugh a lot and forget about the waiting time.

Sometimes I try to help my friend be on time. I tell them to set alarms or prepare things in advance. It works a little, but not always. So I just accept it as part of their personality.

I think everyone has small habits like this. Nobody is perfect. The most important thing is understanding and friendship. Even if my friend is late, I still value our time together.

Now I usually plan my own time better when I meet them. I bring something to do and don't stress about waiting. It helps me stay calm and enjoy the meeting more.

Key Vocabulary and Expressions

be late — опаздывать

agree to meet — договориться встретиться

on time — вовремя

wait for someone — ждать кого-то

meeting place — место встречи

say sorry — извиняться

continue plans — продолжать планы spend time together — проводить время вместе funny stories — смешные истории set alarms — ставить будильники prepare in advance — готовиться заранее personality — характер value time — ценить время stay calm — оставаться спокойным
enjoy the meeting — наслаждаться встречей
